Are you getting bombarded with questions from well-meaning relatives and friends about your destination wedding? We've got a simple and fun solution- create a wedding web site! You can include helpful travel information, dates and times for group activities...AND, best of all- your guests can RSVP through your site. Personalize it to reflect your personalities or destination of choice. Add music and photos to really spice it up.

Our pick: www.eWedding.com

They have the best looking sites and are extremely user-friendly. Try it for 10 days and if you like it, sign up and save $10. Just use promo code "DIDO" and tell them Destination I Do Magazine sent you to get the discount.

Save-the-dates are great for spreading the word about a destination wedding. What will help you ward off stress early on is setting up your wedding web site. When Aunt Ethel calls and asks "What hotel should I stay in, and what time is the group hula dancing lesson?" you can simply reply- "zlt's all on the web site Auntie!"

P.S. Make sure to include your web site in outgoing save-the-date announcements and formal invitations.
